ROLE OF AREA AGENCY ON AGING

the Commonwealth.

Within eighteen (18) of these areas AAA's have already been established. These agencies have the approval and sanction of the local governments within the area along with that of the Virginia Office on Aging to operate as the recognized agency to plan, coordinate, and administer aging services under the Older Americans Act. In addition, each AAA is established as an advocate of elderly persons in sharing their needs and developing appropriate responses to their needs.

In order to effectively carry out the duties established by the legislation, these AAA's formulate an annual Area Plan for Aging Services. Area plans for 1976 will provide a planned approach for providing needed services to aging persons from Oct. 1, 1975 to Sept. 30. AAA's receive their administrative funding through Title III of the Older Americans Act and local funds. However, they may receive other funds from a variety of sources. Area agencies are required to have a public hearing on their plan before submission to the Office on Aging. This provides any citizen the opportunity for comment on needed local services as well as services currently offered.

Title VII Nutrition Projects

The Virginia Office on Aging funds numerous direct service programs. Most of these are provided by or through Area Agencies on Aging. These services include such important areas as homemakers, transportation, protective services, emergency (disaster) services, information and referral, outreach, research, income supplementation, counselling and nutrition.

The last service, nutrition, deserves special mention because of the widespread success of the program in the Commonwealth, and the relatively large amount of resources it receives under Title VII of the Older Americans Act.

Currently, nineteen (19) local projects are operating in the State, with funds reserved, under the State Plan, for initiating two additional projects. The U.S. Congress has been increasing its appropriations for the Title VII program and is likely to continue to do so. Many of our projects, already facing long waiting lists, can benefit from expansion funds.

The program provides a number of social services to elderly individuals who attend a daily hot meal in a group setting. The meal is nutritious (and meets rigid standards of quality) but the fellowship and other "services" such as recreation, counselling, transportation, and shopping assistance are important reasons for the program's great success.

In response to the obvious large demand for the Office looks to continued growth in federal funds and seeking Title XX to the Social expand nutrition and

VA QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q - The law provides a grant not to exceed $3,300 for certain disabled veterans toward purchase of an automobile. If a veteran received this grant when the amount was lower, can he now use the difference toward purchase of another automobile?

A - No; however, the law does provide for repair or replacement of adaptive equipment necessary for safe operation of an automobile acquired under this benefit.

Q - I used the specially adapted housing grant when it was $12,500. This grant has now been raised to $25,000. Am I entitled to the difference on another house?

A - No. This is a one-time benefit for eligible veterans.

Q - I am a son of a veteran who died of service-connected causes. I received dependency and indemnity compensation after age 18 while attending college until I married. I am now 20 and divorced. Will my benefits be restored since I am still attending school?

A - Yes. DIC payments for eligible children may be paid between the ages of 18 and 23, while enrolled in a VA-approved school. Benefits are terminated when the child marries. Since Jan. 1, 1975, benefits may be restored if the marriage is terminated due to death or divorce.

...is entitled, The American Condition.

Two books by Louis Nizer make interesting reading for men. He has been called a "legendary attorney" by News-week magazine. The Implosion Conspiracy which he wrote in 1973 is the true story of the Rosenberg espionage case. The Jury Returns which I have recommended before, is about four cases in which he fights for human rights under the law.

There are many more that men would like if they would only ask for them such as: The Miami Dolphins; Dividends From Space; Life and Death of Nazi Germany and even Evelyn Duvall's Handbook For Parents, so let's read more than we have been, men.
